Switched from Lattice → brava

"Lattice served us well, but we needed a platform our team would actually use—one that fits into existing workflows rather than creating extra work. Brava's AI-native approach integrates with tools like Slack and Granola, reducing admin work so managers can focus on their people. The Brava team has been an incredible partner, responding almost instantly and implementing feature requests in days. We're excited about the partnership and where Brava is headed."
